Probably your Mac is storing emails in local folders instead of up on the server, making it hard to sync your emails.. Let us put it this way: When you use IMAP mail on your computer, the default location for storing your sent emails, drafts, and achieves is on your mail server.. In an ideal case, you should be able to see the exact emails sorted in the same folders across your devices.

Check the Mail app preferences to ensure that the settings on your email accounts are up to date.
